POLL PLACES FOR CITY ARE ESTABLISHED

Sewer Legislation Also Passed By Council During Brief Session.

Council passed an ordinance in a brief session Wednesday night declaring it necessary to construct sanitary sewers on Union-st, between Clinton-st, and Abernethy-Ave; on Pickaway-st, between Walnut-st, and Edison-Ave, and on Edison-Ave, between Pickaway and Court-sts; on Ohio-st, between Renick-Ave, and Clinton-st, thence north on Clinton-st, to Corwin-st.

The public safety committee was granted further time in regard to purchasing ladders and hose for the fire department.

MONEY APPROPRIATED

The finance committee reported that the city would be able at this time to make an appropriation of $450 for coal at the Memorial Hall; $500 for street signs and $150 for repairs to the city cottage. The roof at the city cottage is in very bad condition.

These amounts were appropriated by passing an ordinance under suspension of the rules.

A resolution was adopted by the council designating the voting places in the city for the general election to be held Nov. 6.

POLLING PLACES

The polling places are as follows:

First Ward, East Precinct—The Community House of the United Brethren Church, located at 310 on the north side of E. Main-st, between Washington-st, and McCrea-Ave.

First Ward, North Precinct—Garage of Edward Helwagen, located at 408 on the east side of N. Court-st, between Water-st, and Hargus creek.

First Ward- West Precinct—Store room of Charles Stofer, located at 158 on the north side of W. Main-st, between Court and Scioto-sts.

Second Ward, East Precinct—Woeber's shop, located at 313 on the west side of Clinton-st, between Mound and Union-sts.

Second Ward, West Precinct—Fire department building, located at 147 on the south side of Franklin-st, between Court and Pickaway-sts.

Third Ward, North Precinct—Mayor's office in the city building, located at 102 on the north side of W. Franklin-st, between Court and Scioto-sts.

Third Ward, South Precinct—Office of H. M. Crites, located at 35 in his mill property located on the west side of S. Court-st, between Huston and Harrison-sts.

Fourth Ward, North Precinct—North store room of George W. Limebaugh, located at 406 on the east side of S. Pickaway-st, between Union and Mill-sts.

Fourth Ward, South Precinct—Store room of E. E. Root, located at 201 on the south side of Logan-st, between Pickaway and Washington-sts.

DEMOCRATS HAVE 2 HEADQUARTERS

The Democrats have two headquarters during the Pumpkin Show in the rooms under Gamer's Dry Cleaning establishment and also a booth in front of the rooms. Both are decorated in fall colors and suggestions of fall are added here and there which corresponded with the Pumpkin Show. Democratic literature will be distributed at both places, and information may be had at the booth.

The roome will act as rest rooms during the show.

The county candidates will be present at the headquarters and everybody is cordially invited to visit the booth and headquarters during their visit at the Pumpkin Show.

A novel feature to be seen at the booth is a cleverly arranged image of Al Smith with his brown derby and cigar.

NEW POLICE SIGNED

Five new policemen have been sworn in by the police department to take care of the Pumpkin Show crowds, according to C. M. Clay, safety director.

On the Observation Platform

First of her sex to fly the Atlantic as a passenger—if one excepts Boston's Lady Lindy, Amelia Earhart—Lady Drummond Hay is here shown conversing with Dr. Hugo Eckener as the Graf Zeppelin bucked headwinds en route to the United States. The photo is exclusive and was taken by Robert Hartmann, staff cameraman for MGM News and International Newsreel.

Music and Drama Will Be Featured in Circleville's Winter Lecture Course

Five Exceptionally Good Numbers Booked—First On Oct. 26.

A lecture course of five numbers has been arranged for Circleville during the coming winter, with the first engagement Friday, Oct. 26. This, and the following programs, will be held in the Memorial Hall. The mensponsoring the lecture course are; T. O. Gilliland, J. R. Noecker, G. I. Nickerson, George Fitzpatrick, Thomas Jeffries, S. T. Rife, Lawrence Goeller, and E. S. Neuding.

Friday night the first offering of the course will be the DeWillo Concert Co., featuring DeWillo Semerau and his Concertina Grande. This company is in a class by itself as one of the most unique companies in concert work. The concertina grande is an instrument that approaches the pipe organ in tone volume and is the equal of a concert band in difference of tone qualities. DeWillo, master of the instrument, has been engaged in all lines of professional concert work, and has alone taken the place of an entire company through a season of summer Chautauquas.

TALENTED VIOLINIST

Another member of the company on this program is La Naomi Coffin, violinist, for ten years a pupil of the famed Tirindelli. She is also an accomplished pianist.

Mrs. DeWillo Semerau soprano and pianist, has a sweet voice of wide range and her gracious personality blends well with her sympathetic interpretation, making her work a great success. More than half of the program consists of ensemble music and the variety is unusually appealing.

Other engagements for the lecture course will be Ernest Powell orator and wit, on Dec. 4. "Smilin' Through," popular play production in three acts, will be presented by Bob Hanscom and company. The production will be complete with special scenery, electrical effects and music.

The fourth number of the course will be Feb. 26, and will be the Lucille Elmore Revue. Miss Elmore promises melody, musical comedy and mimicry. She is a cousin of Fred Stone, the comedian, and a prominent member of the Broadway cast of "Stepping Stones."

DRAMA FINAL NUMBER

The final date of the program is March 26, at which time the Emerson Winters Company will present drama, whistling, bird imitations and impersonations. This company is a standard entertainment attraction of over ten years experience and has established a permanent place for itself by hard work and genuine merit. They are not content to give the same program year after year, but are always planning something new. This year it is a play "Happiness through Sacrifice," that lasts 30 minutes but is full of happiness. Other acts occupy the remainder of a most interesting program.

Tickets for this lecture course may be procured from all of the seven men who are sponsoring this fine entertainment for the coming months. The prices for the tickets are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children.

FOX HAS ONE DAY OF LIFE

William Hickman, Girl Slayer, Will Be Executed Friday Morning.

SAN QUENTIN STATE PRISON, CALIF., Oct. 18 — (UP) — Alone with his conscience in the old death cell of San Quentin prison, William Edward Hickman today watched with outward calm the passing of the few hours of life to him.

Shortly after 10 a. m., tomorrow Hickman will be led from the cell over the last short path of San Quentin's condemned and will mount the scaffold to forfeit his life in atonement for the murder of Marion Parker.

Hickman's final farewells were said. And the only legal means that offer a remote possibility of delaying the hanging had been abandoned. There remained for him but a little more time to spend reading or writing at a small desk in the corner of the "condemned cage" and one more night of sleep on a narrow cot in the opposite corner. Outside the cell prison guards keeping the death watch marched up and down the corridor.

Just as the last mournful notes of taps sounded out over the walls of San Quentin state prison last night, Hickman started on his march to the death house.

RED IS EXECUTED

LUCCA, Italy, Oct. 18—Michele Della Maggiore, Communist, was executed by a firing squad at sunrise today. He was the first person put to death by law in Italy in 46 years. He was sentenced yesterday by the special military tribunal for the murder of two Fascists.

PLAN SERVICE ACROSS OCEAN

Dr. Eckener Tries To Interest American Capital In Air Venture.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 13.—Discussing concerning formation of a dirigible transportation corporation, to operate on a 54-hour schedule between Europe and the United States, probably will get underway today between Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, and interested financiers.

Dr. Eckener in New York yesterday revealed that he hoped to formulate corporation, with a capital of $14,000,000, for trans-Atlantic service before the Graf Zeppelin returns to its home port at Friederichshafen, Germany.

Later Captain E. A. Lehmann, first officer of the Graf Zeppelin, said the conference would be held here today. He would not indicate identity of the Americans interested in the proposed corporation.

Eckener and the officers of the Graf Zeppelin are expected here this morning from New York to oversee a few of the plans for repairing the torn fin of the great air liner and then proceed to Philadelphia where a celebration has been arranged in their honor.

Meanwhile the Graf Zeppelin continues to be of great interest to thousands of visitors from New York and nearby points. Perhaps 20,000 persons visited yesterday the hangar where navy officers and members of the Graf Zeppelin crew worked on the trans-Atlantic air liner.

STUNT FLYERS HERE FOR PUMPKIN SHOW

Fred Davis, operations manager of the Columbus Flying Service, landed in Circleville Thursday morning with a Travelaire plane which will be used for passenger service. He immediately returned to Columbus to bring down a monocoupe which will be displayed in the auto section.

The plane doing stunt flying Thursday was piloted by Harold Distelhorst also of the Columbus Flying service.

Passengers will be taken for views of the Pumpkin Show from the air by these aviators from the Crites field 1 1-4 mile south of town on the Scioto trail.

Fred Davis will do stunt flying over the city at 11 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. daily.

FINAL MESSAGE OF AMUNDSEN FOUND

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Oct. 18—What may have been a final message from Roald Amundsen and his five companions, lost in the Arctic last summer, was found today on a gasoline tank of Amundsen's seaplane, picked up at sea.

The tank was brought here by the Norwekian motor boat Ieif. Two lines written in pencil, and nearly obscured, were found on the plane. So far, it has been impossible to decipher any intelligible message, only parts of words having been made out.

YOUNG NAVAL OFFICER HAS SLIM CHANCE

Starts On Hazardous Trip In Small Plane With 100 Gallons of Fuel.

LONDON, Oct. 18—Grave anxiety was felt this afternoon for the safety of Lieut. Commander H. C. MacDonald, Royal Navy, retired, who left Harbor Grace, Nfd., at 11:40 a.m. E.S.T. yesterday on an attempt to fly across the Atlantic to Ireland or England.

At 3:40 p.m. (10:40 a.m. E.S.T.) Commander MacDonald had been gone from Harbor Grace 23 hours, and no word had been received of his whereabouts.

With reckless daring, MacDonald had started across the ocean alone in a light De Haviland Moth plane, with only 100 gallons of fuel. His margin of safety gradually neared the vanishing point this afternoon. Officials of the De Haviland Co., makers of the plane, told the United Press:

100 GALLONS OF FUEL

"Commander MacDonald had 100 gallons of fuel aboard when he started. It is difficult to estimate how long he could remain in the air, because the speed of the wind is unknown, however, we can assume he is using four to four and one-half gallons of fuel an hour.

At a consumption of four gallons an hour, MacDonald would have a margin of 25 hours. Using four and one-half gallons, his margin would be cut to 22 hours. The 22 hours was up at 9:40 p.m. E.S.T.

However, while unfavorable weather prevailed in his course approaching Ireland, west winds reported across the Atlantic may have enabled the flier to conserve his fuel, and it was considered possible this afternoon that he might still be in the air.

VISIBILITY POOR

Visibility was good on the south coast of Ireland, but earlier it had been poor, and similar conditions prevailed elsewhere, so that MacDonald could cross the coast without being observed.

England was aroused to a high point of interest by the exploit of the young naval officer, who is only 33. While an experienced navigator, and a British submarine officer during the war. His flying experience was small. The public imagination was fired by his attempt to duplicate a feat accomplished only by Charles A. Lindbergh, and that in a larger and better-equipped plane.

BREAKS WINDOWS; GETS TEN DAYS

Pair Arrested and Fined For Drunkenness After Wild Auto Chase.

Edward Rutter was fined $5 and costs and George Glenn both of Circleville was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in the county jail by Mayor B. T. Hedges late Wednesday following a chase by police.

Rutter was charged with intoxication while Glenn was charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

The men were seen riding in a roadster on Scioto-st. Rutter was so inebriated, police say, he almost fell from the auto and Glenn had a hard time holding Rutter in the car and keeping it in the street.

After being brought to the city prison Glenn didn't like his room and broke 10 panes of glass out of the windows with his fists. He must serve a day in jail for each pane of glass he broke.

TAKEN TO OHIO PEN

Lara McCartney, sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary for one year to 15 years for chicken stealing was taken to the institution Thursday morning by Sheriff Frank Davis and Deputy John Ward.

FOUNDRY RAZED

WILMINGTON, Oct. 18 — Fire destroyed the Carey Brass Foundry and Machine shop here yesterday with a loss of $7000. The blaze broke out while employes were at lunch.

Back from Jaws of Death

Safe and sound, with his wife and two sons, Bert Hassell, pilot of the ill-fated plane Greater Rockford, which set out to Stockholm, Sweden, arrived in New York from Halifax, N. S., aboard the S. S. Frederick VIII. With Hassell and two others, the Greater Rockford was forced down in Greeland on what was to be a three-legged flight across the ocean. The pilot's sons are Victor and John.

Chicago Fetes Smith as Hoover Plans To Refute 'Prosperity Myth' Charges

Political Leaders of Windy City Predict Victory For Governor.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 18—Gov. Alfred E. Smith found the Windy City rustling with politics today and the local Democratic leaders told him it was blowing his way.

Having come here under the mistaken impression that he might rest for a day, only to find scores of plans for turbulent demonstrations, the Democratic nominee acceeded to the pleas of the leaders and gave himself up to two intensive days of campaigning.

Delegations desieged him at his hotel headquarters, lieutenants rushed in with plans for this or that parade, photographers of the metropolitan press boomed flashlights in his ears, a hundred newspapermen assembled for a conference with him. Between times, he worked on the speech he is to deliver at a downtown armory tomorrow night, closing his personal campaign in the west, or conferred with state officials of the Democratic party.

The party officials, headed by Thomas Donovan, Illinois national committeeman and former Mayor Carter Harrison, all talked of a new drift they scented in the air. Up until now they have smiled about the prospects in Chicago, but wagged their heads about down-state. Now they are reporting deflections in the farm ranks and disturbances in the Republican regime which they say may combine to form an unexepcted result election day.

Hornet's Nest Stirred Up Among Republicans By Sedalia Speech.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—In his New York address Monday night, Herbert Hoover is expected to reply to the charge of his Democratic opponent, Governor Alfred E. Smith, that Republican economy in the Coolidge administration is a "myth."

This had become today, suddenly, the outstanding issue of the campaign. The Democratic presidential candidate, in his Sedalia, Mo., speech, stirred up a veritable hornet's nest. Republican leaders at once jumped into the controversy.

A few hours after Smith's words went to the country over the radio, Chairman Work of the Republican national committee gave out a statement taking issue with him, denying his charge, and characterizing the Democratic candidate, sarcastically, "by his own admission the greatest financial expert New York State has ever had."

Then Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who usually lets political controversies rage about him unnoticed, issued an eight-page statement, in which he went into detail to refute Smith's charges. Mellon took the attack upon him personally. Smith, he said, "understood to challenge my good faith and to accuse me of presenting a false picture to the nation."

Hoover is expected to bring the controversy to its climax in his New York speech by a careful analysis of the administration's financial record.

YOUTH IS INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION

A boy giving his name as Kneee and living near Ashville suffered cuts about the head and hands and a bad gash on his right knee when his auto collided with a parked A. and P. Co. truck near Mitchell's greenhouse on N. Court-st. Thursday morning.

His injuries were attended by Dr. D. V. Courtright. The car was towed in by the Circleville Motors Co. The front of the car was damaged badly.

LANDING FORCED

TOKYO, Oct. 18—Baron Gunther Von Huenefeld, flying from Shanghai to Tokyo, made a forced landing between Kamata and Kawasaki, suburban towns. Police and the aviation bureau, who received the report of the German flyer's descent, said that assistance was being sent to the aviator. It was expected that Von Huenefeld would continue his flight after a short delay and proceed into Tokyo.

CROWDS ARE GREETED BY BRIGHT SUN

School Parade and American Legion Drum Corps Are High Spots of Day.

Heralded by hundreds of chickens on display, a bright October sun arose in a clear washed sky Thursday morning to auspiciously inaugurate the second day of Circleville's Silver Jubilee Pumpkin Show.

Thursday promises to be one of the record days of the annual fall celebration with the colorful school pageant in the afternoon and the American Legion Drum Corps of Greenfield, O., appearing in the evening.

By foot, by horse, by traction, by auto and by airplane, throngs began early Thursday morning to converge on Circleville. Two airplanes from the Columbus Flying service, a monocoupe for display at the Pumpkin show, and a Travelair plane for stunt flying arrived during the day. In the Travelair was Mrs. R. H. Schryver, wife of the former Mt. Sterling and Columbus banker, who took this modern method of visiting the famous fall festival.

OPENING CROWD LARGE

Despite the heavy rain Wednesday afternoon and intermittent showers Wednesday night, an unexpectedly large crowd attended the celebration, viewed the exhibits, visited the shows, flocked to the riding devices, thrilled at the free acts and gorged on hamburger sandwiches and ice cream candy.

Judging continued Thursday on the boys' pig, poultry, calf and corn clubs exhibits. The girls' club demonstrations had a tryout at the farm bureau assembly room, at 1 p.m. Following the judging of the boys' live stock club a demonstration will be held at the livestock tent, on High street.

Three bands are providing music Thursday. They include the Lancaster Liberty band, Carlisse's band and Immell's band.

FREE ACTS EXCEL

The free acts are very good and every one is worth seeing.

Madame Bernard has some well trained animals which mind better than some children. Bee Kyle, the lady high diver from Coney Island, Cincinnati, draws a large crowd with her daring and perilous stunt. Steiner Brothers have a pleasing horizonal bar act near Memorial hall. A very interesting part of this act is a performance with a chair.

Probably the most thrilling act and the one which takes the breath of the crowd is the slide for life at the Court house by the Seldons. At lightning speed the fair member of the act zooms down a smoking wire. The Tweedy Brothers are well known in this section and draw a cord at every performance.

Every show at the festival this year is good. There are no fakes and all are worth seeing. W. B. Motz, of Canal Winchester has a merino hog and it is merino if their ever was one. Its skin is folded up like an accordian. The only thing about it that is real hog is its grunt and its snout. The hog is one year old.

ANIMALS FROM FLORIDA

Charles Wetherwax, who hails from the Everglades of Florida has a good show displaying 63 exhibits of animals, fishes and turtles found in Florida. Twenty-six of the exhibits are alive. Mr. Wetherwax lost a nine-foot alligator Wednesday to the fertilizer factory when the animal died.

H. E. Krumholtz has an interesting little show or a "Midget City." Every little man, which is carved out of wood, two inches high, has some chore to do and every figure moves. The little city is perfect in every detail and it well worth seeing. The city was carved by Henry Polsin, of St. Marys, O.

Another interesting and educational show is the glass blowing exhibit. Henry Myers, of Kent, O., is the creator and with glass he reproduces everything from dress material to ships with glass. The art of glass blowing, once considered one of the seven fine

SHOTGUN STOLEN

Earl Hall, who resides north of Circleville on the Scioto Trail, reported to the police department Thursday that someone entered his home and stole a Winchester shotgun.

Interesting Items Gleaned Here and There From the Pumpkin Show

Mrs. Mary G. Morris, chairman of the baby parade reported at noon Thursday that she had received already 69 entries in this important parade.

James Creedon, of the Columbus police department, has been assigned to special detail work here during the Pumpkin Show.

The entries in the poultry department are heavier than ever before. The chairman, County Auditor Bryce Briggs and his assistant, Miss Kathryn English, have been kept more than busy. So many have been received that the supply of pens for them have been exhausted and the chairman has ask farmers who wish to exhibit to provide their own pens. Many not being able to do this have been turned away.

The Citizens' Telephone Co. has a very attractively decorated front. The front of the building is decorated with autumn leaves and has a very attractive appearance.

The village of Ashville is well represented at the show with two church booths. The Ashville M. E. church has a booth with the Ladies' Aid society handing out the hamburgers and hot dogs. Mrs. H. N. Hodges is in charge of the booth. The Ashville U. B. church also has a booth with Mrs. Anna Cupp in charge. The Ladies' Aid society is operating the lunch stand.

The Circleville Presbyterian church has a lunch room in the former home of the Circleville Daily Union-Herald W. Main-st. The Circleville M. E. church is serving lunches in the church. The Morris U. B. church also has a lunch stand at the Pumpkin Show.

The M. and M. Barber shop has an attractive window display on N. Court-st. The shop has a doll primping before a charming little dresser and it has attracted a lot of attention.

The Cussins and Fern Co. has a very unique display booth on N. Court-st. directly in front of the store. From the booth to the store is an arcade of autumn leaves brightly colored laid in a wire frame. This is the only arcade of this kind at the Pumpkin Show and is very attractive.

George F. Grand-Girard, the druggist, on W. Main-st. has three very unusual displays in his window. A dokpie head carved from pumpkins is on display. This was carved by William Kendall, R. F. D. 5. Another display is a large oyster mushroom found by Robert L. Kuhn on the Ralph May farm. The third is an old French kettle over 100 years old. It was brought to this country by the grandfather of Mr. Grand-Girard. All of the articles are displayed in very attractive settings in the window.

The fancy work department has one of the earliest and largest displays for some years.

The pests who walk along the streets cracking girls around the ankles with riding whips were already in evidence Wednesday night. These nuisances are throw backs from the days when "Wife beaters" were sold at all the novelty booths. These were finally out-lawed around Circleville. One smart whip weilder hit a man's wife and the husband hit him. The fight enlivened the intersection of Court and Main-sts. for several minutes.

It was raining so hard several times when the Yellowbud band was playing, that a spray fairly blew out the mouth of the trombone.

One of the most cleverly trimmed windows for the Pumpkin Show is the window at the Wilder's store on E. Main-st. where blankets had been folded to represent a seat in a Pullman, with the window of the car in the back. A hat box on the floor adds a realistic touch. A sign says, "You don't have to travel to other climates during the winter just keep warm with our blankets."

A big tug-of-war will be held at three different times each day during the Pumpkin Show at Rothman's store. Here is a chance to win a pair of Sweet-Orr "Tug-o-war' ' pants. The contest is open to all me. Three men to compose a team—six in all. Test to be a steady pull If seams are ripped, the trousers will be sent to the factory and the members of winning teams will be forwarded a pair of the trousers.

They are both at the Pumpkin Show, we saw them. They are not together but they are there. One at the court house where he should be and the other one is caged near the traction station. We are speaking of the Democratic rooster and the Republican Eagle. The rooster is in the poultry display and the eagles is in Ohio State game preserve exhibit.

The Circleville Savings and Banking Co. has several interesting articles on display in their window. They have an old warp, a meteor and a Dutch pipe large enough to be made into a saxophone, on display.

Ed. Wallace has a very attractive center piece on display in his bake shop window. The center piece is iced in very attractive colors and has apples, pumpkins, flowers and carrots, perfectly colored, molded out of icing. In the center is "Welcome Folks" tinted in gold. The window is filled with tasty pastries and all passersby stop to marvel at the workmanship in the icing of the baked goods.

The tinted picture of Babs Haswell is attracting more than its share of attention in the show case of the Thornton studio. This colored photograph is of Babs with her most characteristic smile. The picture is all the more appropriate because she is a granddaughter of the Circleville Pumpkin Show. It was her grandfather, George R. Haswell, that inaugurated the show during one of his terms as mayor.

The handsome coats in the show windows at Friedman's are attracting the gaze of many visitors from out of town.

The red-headed clown that is walking around the streets is advertising Buick automobiles. He is as clever at getting up on platforms and telling stories as he is at "kidding" the shy (?) girls along the streets.

Time was when the kiddies could ride the merry-go-round, ferris wheel, and whip, buy a balloon and cotton candy for a quarter. Now a quarter is only good for one-third of these.

'Member when the girls wouldn't ride on the ocean wave because they were afraid their skirts might blow up and show their stockings?

Remember when the school exhibit in the court house used to be the main attraction at the Pumpkin Show?

Things we did not see at the Pumpkin Show: Al Smith's picture in the W. C. T. U. booth; A profusion of brown derbies; Soldiers passing around a bottle of hootch; A horse show; A woman with a long skirt; Family coming to town in a wagon; An Irishman wearing a Hoover badge; Candidates acting backward.

The wind Thursday morning was keeping tents and booths in constant motion. A dozen boxes filled with cracker jack blew through the air, and at the fruit exhibit empty paper plates were sent whirling into the street and flattened against coats of the passersby.

The fancy work display is unusually beautiful this year. The K. of P. lodge room is an ideal place for this exhibit, which has been carefully arranged to show off the work to the best advantage. The quilts are especially attracting a great deal of attention.

The flowers also on display at the K. of P. Hall are very worth seeing. The number of flowers is astonishing after the early heavy frost of year. All of the baskets this week are artistic and some of the have some blossoms that are ra to the flower growers of Circ ville.

The stunting airman had ever one gasping and holding the breath at 11:00 a. m. Thursday, he went through his death defyi maneuvers high above the cit He will perform twice every da

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

Kiddies, Parents Are Entertained By Animals' Acts

The dog, pony and bear act which opened the free acts of the Pumpkin Show Wednesday night, proceeded after a late start, in one of the heavy showers of the evening. Four sleepy cunning canines performed their tricks, shaking their heads and staring up at the rain drops that were lighting on their smart little noses.

One tiny terrier was especially full of tricks, jumping hurriedly from one stunt to another. The other dogs were not so anxious to cavort around the wet platform, but drew some enthusiastic applause when they finally deigned to perform. They seemed much happier sitting on their pedestals high hatting the crowd.

Four ponies, fat and sassy, clamored up to the platform for an act of drills and dancing. The boards were slippery from the rain and they hesitated several times, because they were not sure of their footing.

A short tailed monkey brought many laughs when he jumped into a cart and rode instead of pushing it when his mistress wasn't looking.

A big black bear, docilely performed in a popular act. In one trick he sat at a table and ate porridge out of a bowl, for all the world like the papa bear in the famous Goldilocks story of the three bears. His last act was to gurgle a bottle of "home brew," probably sugar water, and roll over in a regular jag. He is an enormous monster and taller than his trainer.

The two collie dogs that come on the platform for the last act seem to have a fine time running around jumping on and off the back of a pony as he races around with the monkey hugging him around the neck. These two dogs were the only animals of this group which did not seem to resent the falling rain.

Madam Bernard showed nothing but kindness to her trained ponies and dogs, and this fact made the act one of the best for the children to see. Especially will they like the nice woolly dog that does the tight wire act, wagging his tail as he walks through the air.

arts, but fallen into decadence at the present day, is exemplified by Mr. Myers. He also has a glass engine which operates by steam or air. Even the cylinder and cut-off valves are made of glass showing all the working parts. To students who are studying chemistry this is a very educational display.

Mr. Myers has been endorsed an expert by such men as Captain Ira J. Hooks of Ohio University and other notables high in chemistry. Patrons are presented a souvenir free.

"The Man of Mystery" is also educational and worth ones time to visit. This show is located at the Grand theater.

MANY MONTHS OF SUFFERING ENDED BY NEW KONJOLA

After Long and Intense Misery From Stomach Trouble Lady Is Feeling Fine Again.

MRS. M. A. COFFMAN.

Day by day there pour in from scores of towns and cities the grateful and happy endorsements of Konjola. Those who suffer as she did will read with interest the statement of Mrs. M. A. Coffman, 3054 East Twenty-ninth street, Lorain, Ohio, who, with grateful heart and in glorious health, says:

"What a debt I owe to Konjola, the new remedy that restored my health after months of vain effort to find relief for stomach, bowel and kidney afflictions. So bad was my digestion that I was forced to live on a milk diet, and even on so light a fare I suffered from constipation, gas and bloating. My kidneys caused me intense pains in the back. But Konjola changed all this. A full treatment—six bottles—has changed me completely. I can eat and digest any food; my bowels are normal and kidneys functioning perfectly; I sleep all night without rising, and I feel a different person in every way. That my months of suffering were ended in a few weeks is proof that Konjola is really what it claims to be—the master medicine."

Konjola is sold in Circleville at Mykrantz Pharmacy, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

DEVISE KNIFE TO CUT STALKS LOW

Federal Engineers Invent Attachment To Attack Borers In Stubble.

One fourth of the corn borers in the original stalk of corn were still snugly ensconced in the 7-inch stubble after the field had been cut. Ohio entomologists found on a recent visit to borer-infested districts in Essex-co, Ontario. Before cutting, the average borer population per stalk in the field was between 25 and 30. The stubble left after cutting contained approximately one borer for each inch of its length.

To control the corn borer by clean-up measures, engineers of the United States Department of Agriculture have asserted, it is necessary for the stubble to be cut at or near the ground level, in order to avoid the necessity for another operation to dispose of the stubble.

Since standard corn binders cut 4 to 6 inches from the ground the engineers sought to devise an attachment which would cut the stubble closer. Such a device has been developed and thoroughly tested, now having the approval of all agencies engaged in research and control work on the corn borer. Frank Irons and David A. Isler, research engineers, planned the attachment and tested it.

It consists essentially of a stationary knife set just ahead of the corn-binder sickle, and having no moving parts. It slides along the ground and cuts the stalks at ground level as the binder moves forward. An elevating shield causes the stalk butts, which have been cut by the stationary knife, to pass above the sickle without being cut a second time. Grass, weeds and trash pass to one side of the shield and are cut by the sickle.

The device is simple, comparatively inexpensive, and can be manufactured in almost any farm or local blacksmith shop. Designs for constructing it to fit two of the most popular makes of corn binders have already been worked out. Plans for the attachment may be obtained from European Corn Borer Control Headquarters at Toledo, Ohio.

Broken Eggs, Secret Trysts; 1 Dead, 1 Dying, 1 Jailed

"Petey" Powell (upper left) whom Fate tricked sardonically when he dropped a bag of eggs at feet of enchanting Mrs. Zella Dickson (lower left), blueblooded Denver matron. Right, artist's conception of the scene which detective reported back to Mr. Alpheus E. Dickson, movie magnate, and which probably caused him to lay trap which resulted in Powell's untimely death.

DENVER, Oct. 18—When "Petey" Powell, lubberly grocer's boy, stubbed his toe and scrambled two dozen of his employer's best white eggs on the immaculate kitchen floor of a palatial Capitol Hill residence, he also scrambled one of Denver's happiest romances, brought bleak desolation to an invalid sister and, indirectly, started a train of circumstances that resulted in his own death—in the blazing light of an army automatic.

It all began last winter when "Petey" left his home on a farm in southern Missouri and came to Denver so that he might be near his sick sister, Sadie, who had settled here to repair her broken health. He obtained his first job as a delivery boy for a market and grocery, and it was in carrying out his humble duties that he met the fate that cost him his life and may leave its imprint upon others.

Fate Takes a Hand

While the luckless boy stood cowering under the tongue-lashing of the cook of the Alpheus E. Dickson household, he suddenly noticed the beautiful mistress of the establishment observing him, framed in a doorway. She broke in upon the tirade to suggest that the cook go herself for more eggs while the boy cleared away the wreckage. No one can say just what was spoken after the cook had left, but it is fairly certain that other things than groceries were talked about. At any rate, the grocer's boy several days later found himself in the role of cavalier to the beautiful woman who sympathized with him, ostensibly in order that he might teach her to drive the Dickson's imported car.

Following long rides over the picturesque Colorado countryside, excursions during which propinquity must have done something to the twenty-nine-year-old matron and the rugged country boy. Of their preoccupation, however, Alpheus E. Dickson, movie picture magnate, had not the least suspicion. It was only when Sadie, the boy's ailing sister, came to his office with the plea that he save her brother from an infatuation with the lovely society woman, that he sent for a certain detective, famous for his discreet handling of such cases.

Dickson Tells of Ruse

Dickson's next step was related at the coroner's inquest:

"I told my wife I was going out of town on business. I didn't go. I had a hunch. I could hear voices inside the house, so I threw open the door and flashed on the light. Figuring that Powell might shoot me, I drew my automatic. He grabbed my wrist; we struggled. In the struggle, the gun went off. The bullet struck him and he collapsed."

Following the tragedy Mrs. Zella Dickson became a cryptic figure, curtained from an all unwelcome intrusions. If she grieved over "Petey's" untimely death it wasn't set forth in the newspapers. Her husband, a world war officer and prominent in Denver's business life, went about his affairs as usual; and indications are that he will rely upon the "unwritten law" and a plea of self-defense when the scrambled trial finally comes up for trial.

Meantime "Petey's" sister pitifully grieves over the tragedy which she feels might have been avoided had she not besought the wealthy husband's aid in "curing" the infatuation.

Don't fail to see the Man of Mystery at the corner of Court and Pinkney-sts.

HISTORY OF FLOCK GUIDE IN CULLING

Easier To Pick Poor Birds From Good Flock Than Reverse Method.

"In culling poultry the history of the flock should be the first important consideration," says the extension specialists in poultry husbandry at the Ohio State university. "If the flock as a whole has been laying heavily throughout the entire year, culling should be comparatively easy, as the good birds will show evidence of high production, while the few poor birds will be outstanding, showing very definite evidences of low production or none.

"If the flock has laid indifferently throughout the year, or has suffered from parasites such as red mites, lice or intestinal worms, or is improperly housed or cared for, the culling will be very difficult, for many of the birds that are really worth keeping will be questionable, due to their condition. Under such circumstances the first step should be to correct conditions, and allow the good birds to come back and show their value which will cause the poor birds to be more easily recognized.

"It is always better to improve average production by better management rather than by culling, which decreases the number of birds and cuts down the possible earning power of the flock."

FOOD FOR PLANTS TAKEN FROM AIR

Out of thin air, scientists in 1928 have captured nearly one million tons of plant food—nitrogen. More than half of all nitrogen obtained during the year for this purpose, came directly from the air, which contains an inexhaustible supply. The process of "fixing" the air nitrogen requires electric power, but cheap electric power is no longer the determining factor in the cost of the process, as it once was. Recent developments in the fixing process have solved the power problem, which is no longer primarily important.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

SALTCREEK SCHOOL

SALTCREEK SCHOOL NEWS

Saltcreek will meet Washington in baseball at Washington, Friday, Oct. 19.

Don't forget the "school fair" Oct. 26.

We are sorry to say that one of our freshman boys, Lewis Cook, is moving.

MARSHMALLOW TOAST

The marshmallow toast given by the junior class last Friday evening was well attended. The following were present: Supt. and Mrs. Dyer, Charles Morris, James Chilcote, Glenn Fetherolf, Ernest Francis, Elsie Francis, William Moss, Kenneth Moss, John Allen, Amic Hill, Howard Hartranft, Thelma Goldrick, Blanche Heffner, Millard Heffner, Ruth Fetherolf, Ruth Karr, Mabel Hill, Fred Fetherolf, Raymond Hedges, Katherine Walters, Doc Karr, Larry Goodman, Helen Jones and Lucille Goodman.

SALTCREEK DEFEATED

Last Friday Saltcreek was badly defeated by Muhlenberg's famous nine by a score of 7 to 0. The first five innings were close and hard fought with Muhlenberg scoring only one run. In the next four Saltcreek weakened and allowed Muhlenberg to score six times. Saltcreek wasn't playing the game, they usually do, and their fielding and batting was very poor. Muhlenberg played a good game, making no errors and getting some good hits off the Saltcreek twirlers.

Each Drop Like a Whole Vegetable!

FRESH vegetables would give us all a state of health, if only we would eat enough of them. Few of us do. But here is a little secret about assisting the peristaltic action so vitally important to our health; there is enough in one spoon of plain syrup pepsin to fill a market basket!

Several factors affecting sound health are often ignored in the average person's daily diet. But add a little syrup pepsin now and then, and watch what happens! Your appetite improves, so does your digestion, and elimination. Lots of folks who thought they were in perfect physical condition see a tremendous change after ten days with syrup pepsin.

When a scientific, vegetable corrective can put you in fine physical form so quickly, you keep the whole alimentary tract cleansed and sweet and free from need of powerful purges—it surely is worth trying! An actual test can be made in ten days. In this short space of time your stomach, and liver and bowels can be in shape to handle anything that's eaten!

Children thrive on almost any diet when pure pepsin syrup is given just occasionally to help assimilation, and make elimination frequent and regular. Elderly people have far easier time, too, where this ideal combination of laxative herbs and pure pepsin is appreciated. Dr. Caldwell discovered this modern means of keeping bowels normally active in 1875. Now, you can find a druggist without this famous prescription, all put up with directions enclosed.

TUNNEY AND PUBLICITY

Gene Tunney, in Italy, continues his objections to cameramen. He took one camera away from a photographer, opened it and exposed the film; he threatened to break another camera if its owner did not leave him alone.

This irritation is quite natural and easy to understand. Tunney is not the first young man to find fame something of a bore.

Yet Tunney might bear in mind that the publicity which he now despises has been the principle cause of his rise to fortune. Whence came the tremendous "gates" for his two fights with Dempsey if not from the vast attention the newspapers paid the two participants? Tunney would not be the wealthy man of leisure he now is if the "pestiferous newspapermen" had not camped on his trail a couple of years ago.

BAD GUESSES BY EXPERTS

Sports writers are, notoriously, prone to err when they try to pick the winner of an important prize fight. The number of bad guesses centering about the first Dempsey-Tunney fight is still fresh in the public memory.

But it might be pointed out that political experts, as far as the present campaign is concerned, are in a sad plight also. After reading a number of prognostications, one is forced to the conclusion that most of them simply haven't an idea of what's going to happen.

The other day two New York papers printed analytical stores of the effects of Governor Smith's first western tour. One paper, The World, Democratic, announced that Republican headquarters were shivering with fear, that they already conceded Smith Wisconsin, North Dakota and South Dakota and that they feared more states would follow. The other, The Herald-Tribune, Republican, asserted that the campaign tour had been a flop, and that Republican leaders were now satisfied that Smith could not carry a single state in the northwest.

What is a bewildered voter to do in such a case? Apparently each "expert" quoted here was simply letting his conscious be his guide. And so, one may guess, it will continue to be, down to the end of the campaign.

LOSS AND GAIN

"The United Presbyterian" a religious periodical, has the following to say of our fabulous increase in wealth:

"A 4,440 per cent increase in the wealth of the United States since 1850 has carried the total worth of the country to $320,000,000 according to a compilation by economists of Stone, Webster and Blodget. Since 1590 a debt to Europe of $600,000,000 has been replaced by a credit abroad of about $14,000,000,000.

"What has been our increase in moral leader, in spiritual power in the sense of blessedness, contentment and peace which passeth knowledge— a joy expressible and full of glory? We have more wealth but we are poorer. We have more things but we are sadder. We have fabulous billions but in a large measure we have forgotten how to laugh and whistle and sing."

ORGANIZED EFFORT

Perhaps the one most important difference between the life of modern civilization and that of early barbaric times, is that our life is well organized. People get together to do the things that need doing. They realize that the single individual working for himself alone is not prepared to push his community ahead.

Hence the progress of a community depends greatly on how well it is organized. It needs good churches, fraternal improvement, business [illegible] and educational organizations. Whenever we join such an organization, whether we pay its costs attend its meetings or help carry on its activities we help Circleville to a higher level.

SPIRIT of the PRESS

Tea drinkers in the United States spend $75,000,000 a year for their favorite beverage, so there is at least that much money that the bootleggers don't get.

We haven't given up hope that one of these days some real smart scientist is going to discover valuable vitamines in a food that we really enjoy eating.

Thoughts of Wise Men

Falseness of mind comes from falseness of heart; it arises from secretly placing one's own opinion for the goal in the place of the true opinion. And a false mind is false in all things, as a squint-eye always sees obliquely. Yet one may err once, even a hundred times, without being falseminded. There can never be falseness of mind where there is sincerety.
—JOUBERT.

"I Have Resolved—to live with all my might; Resolved never to lose one moment of time, but to improve it in the most profitable way I possibly can; Resolved never to do anything which I should despise, or think meanly of any brother; Resolved never to do anything out of revenge; Resolved never to do anything which I should be afraid to do if it were the last hour of my life."

THE JUDGMENT OF A SOLOMON

Broadway Love

by Thomas Edgelow

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JANET WILDE is the young and pretty daughter of Benimore Wilde, one of Broadway's favorite actors. His son, Frank, is an idler and, like his father, a spendthrift. In a restaurant, Janet meets a young musician, Leonard Quigg, who attracts her. Janet's father drops dead after a brilliant performance, leaving her and her brother almost penniless. She obtains the position of confidential secretary to John Montague, theatrical impresario. At the same time she cements a friendship with a brilliant young doctor, David Churchill, who is secretly in love with Janet. A few weeks after obtaining her position in the Montague office Janet dines with her employer and he offers to make her a star and settle a large sum of money on her—with provisions. She sneers at his "generosity" and makes him promise never to mention the matter again. Later she meets Leonard Quigg's uncle, Chester Quigg, the artist, and his young daughter, Alice. Again Montague renews his offer and kisses Janet roughly. She resigns, and leaves his office in a fury. David Churchill offers Janet a job and she says she will phone him her decision. When he goes home he finds his wife, whom he does not love, has returned from Palm Beach with their two children. Janet phones him and he goes to her apartment to discuss her new position. There he meets Leonard Quigg, also in love with Janet, and the two men glare at each other hostilely. Churchill leaves shortly after and Leonard soothes Janet with a violin solo.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIII.

JANET found that David was intensely businesslike, and of course she could not know that he was deliberately forcing himself to be gravely professional in his manner so that Janet should not guess his secret.

"As regards salary," David remarked casually, "you were getting fifty a week at your last job?"

"Yes," Janet admitted. "but then it was very special work. I don't imagine a doctor pays as much."

"He does not," David replied, very busy with some papers. "That is, in the ordinary case, but my work is very specialized, and it is so difficult to get anyone who is efficient and yet tactful that I've been paying exactly that—fifty a week." He said it so convincingly, although it was quite untrue, that Janet believed him.

He plunged into details. Miss Steele, the trained nurse, would look after this and that, but Dr. Churchill would rely upon his private secretary for the keeping of his books, and the making of appointments. That last item in itself, he insisted, was an art.

"When a physician's secretary makes an appointment, that is one thing," he told Janet. "But remember that nine people out of ten who want to see me—who have to see me—are scared pink! Your voice must convey confidence—give them courage, and remember that nearly everyone is afraid of an operation."

Janet did not find the various duties as difficult as David had led her to believe they would be. For the next two weeks she thought about little else except her work, and having thoroughly mastered her job, it was disapointing for it to end so suddenly.

But late one afternoon, towards the end of February, Janet was sitting in David's office. She knew that he had been called in suddenly, and was operating in a private hospital on the little daughter of a railroad magnate, a particularly difficult and dangerous case of mastoid trouble. She did not expect David at the office that day.

Suddenly he came in, and Janet saw that he was nervous and upset.

"Is anything go wrong, Doctor?" Janet asked. In the office she invariably addressed David in that way, while he called her "Miss Wilde" despite the fact that outside business hours they dropped back into "David" and "Janet."

"Not with the operation, Miss Wilde. I went home—like a fool [illegible]" He paused and fussed about the office. Then he turned to her: "Janet, let's have dinner somewhere. I'm hungry and I don't want to dine alone, and I can't dine at home. Where can we go?"

"I don't know anywhere that is quiet," Janet answered.

"Will you do this?" he asked on sudden impulse. "I am an extremely good cook! Let's buy a steak somewhere—at a restaurant if all the shops are closed—and let me cook at it your place."

Janet, who had nothing to do, consented. Over on Second Avenue they found a butcher still open, and having bought the steak and some mushrooms, they drove to Janet's apartment.

It was after David had cooked his steak, and cooked it well and after they had dined, that he relaxed and began to talk.

"I wish," David said, as he lit a cigarette, "that I was anything else but a doctor—a well-known doctor."

"Tired of increasing fame?" Janet said, pouring him out another cup of coffee.

"There is always so much talk if a well-known man in my profession gets a divorce," he announced.

"Do you want a divorce?" Janet asked.

"Oh, I can't stand it much longer," David cried. "You have no idea of what my life is, Janet! I am married to a very beautiful woman. I am sure that she is faithful to me, though, of course, she is always surrounded by a lot of fools telling her how beautiful she is. That is part of the penalty of being married to anyone who looks like an angel. Angels have to be told frequently how lovely they are—but it stops at that. She is a good mother to my children. She is well-bred and a perfect hostess. She manages the household so that everything runs smoothly."

"Then what are you kicking about?" Janet smiled.

"The fact that we have absolutely nothing in common," he said bitterly. "She looks on me as a sort of hard working banker. I am making, as you know, a sizeable income. I am not very much ahead of the game because Amy will [illegible] it faster than it comes in. Not that that worries me very much, except that I do not have as much leisure as I would have if it were not for her incessant scream for more money. The point is, she doesn't understand me."

It was the old, old cry of the married man; but, because he looked so miserable, Janet did not laugh at him.

"I performed that operation this afternoon," David went on "I won't bore you with technical details, but at one moment I feared I had lost the fight I was making for that child's life. But I didn't lose—I won, although she is not yet out of danger. But it took it out of me, Janet, and I drove home feeling like a wet rag. I hadn't been in the house three minutes before Amy was asking me if I would not get a huge fee considering the wealth of the child's father!

"You have no idea how this irritated me! I didn't give a hang about my fee, and I said so. Amy was furious, and we had a row and in the middle of it, she lets a fellow in about renting us a cottage at Southampton this coming Summer. Now I ask you—can a man go through the nervous strain I had this afternoon, and worry about plans for the Summer? Amy was insisting that, exorbitant as the rent was, this operation would more than pay for it. Made me feel like a vulture! Naturally, I like money, but in a case like this afternoon's, I want to forget it for the time. I said all this, and more—and we had another row, and I stormed out of the apartment. I tell you my nerves will not stand it much longer. I wish to heaven I could have a divorce!"

"You are nervous and upset David," Janet said, a little helplessly. "You'll feel much better tomorrow."

"Are you going to feed me bromides and platitudes?" he asked almost angrily. "Can't you get it, Janet, when a man is on the breaking point? It isn't just today, it's an accumulation of years—ever since I began to succeed."

"But before success?" Janet said gently. "Didn't your wife stick by you and help? You have arrived very early, David, for a surgeon, and you know Barrie's play, 'What Every Woman Knows,' showing that every man who makes a success owes it to some woman."

"She reminds me of it three times a day," he complained. "I feel like telling the truth tonight, Janet, if I don't bore you."

"Oh, talk if it helps you," Janet said good-naturedly.

"I can't go on like this," David said helplessly. "Amy and I have nothing left—it is all in the past though we have to consider the children. And that's only one part of it. There is another angle, and that I thought I would never confide in you until Amy and I were divorced. But don't you know, Janet, the chief thing in my life?"

"What do you mean?" Janet asked entirely unprepared for the explanation. "What is it?"

"The fact," he said sharply "that I happen to love you."

CAMPAIGN LOG

October 18.
(By UNITED PRESS)

Herbert Hoover is expected to answer at New York Monday the charges made by Governor Smith against the economy of the present Republican administration. It was said also that Hoover probably would make his main radio address on the western tour at St. Louis.

Governor Smith in Chicago conferred with Democratic leaders, who were optimistic about chances in Illinois. He also planned final work on the speech he will give there tomorrow night.

Senator Curtis rested a few hours at Wilmington, Del., today after a strenuous program Wednesday which concluded with a laudation of the Republican administration of the last seven years.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson denounced religious intolerance in a speech at Ogden, Utah.

A report filed with the house campaign funds committee revealed the Democratic party had $500,000 from the County Trust company of New York to help finance the presidential campaign.

WILLIAMSPORT

Mrs. Lee Luellen spent a part of this week in Columbus.

Rev. and Mrs. W. W. Trout of Carroll, were in Williamsport Monday.

The October meeting of the Sorosis club was held on Monday evening at the home of Misses Mary and Nellie Nessell. It was in the form of a masquerade party. Clever indeed were the many made-ups present. Numerous contests added to the merriment of the occasion. During the business session the club decided to purchase and install a sink and pump in the parish house. Late in the evening delicious refreshments of fruit salad, sandwiches, olives, doughnuts and coffee were served. Out-of-town visitors were the Misses Porter of near Five Points and Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Templin and Mrs. Taylor, all of Clarksburg.

Members of the Harry J. Dunlap family visited with Mr. and Mrs. Pickering and family of Huntington, W. Va., last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Gephart were Columbus visitors Wednesday.

Mrs. John H. Dunlap spent Wednesday in Columbus in company with her sister, Miss Florence Bitzer of Chillicothe.

Mrs. Glen T. Baker was hostess to her bridge club Tuesday evening. There were five tables of players. Late in the evening a delightful lunch was served. Tiny baskets containing marigolds, of the smaller variety, graced the tables. The paper cups containing candies were appropriate for the Hallowe'en season. In the serving Mrs. Baker was assisted by Mrs. Edward Sanderson and Mrs. George Lemay.

THEATRES

MAY McAVOY AT GRAND

May McAvoy in "The Little Snob" is the picture featured at the Grand Theater tonight. It is the glamorous drama of Coney Island and of college. The picture is the ritzy romance of a carnival girl with fashions, fists, fun and fix-up. In the picture she loses her head but her heart found it. A Fox news reel and a Standard comedy are also on the program.

NEW KEATON COMEDY

"The Cameraman," Buster Keaton's latest comedy starring vehicle is the attraction commencing Friday at the Metropolitan Theater, when the frozen-faced comedian will be seen in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's hilarious account of the adventures of an apprentice newsreel cameraman in New York.

The new picture is a view of the "inside" of newsreel work, a love romance, and all bound up in a series of comical mishaps for Keaton. It is the first picture under Keaton's new M-G-M contract.

MELODRAMA AT CLIFTONA

A series of interesting color etchings, authentic copies of the works of leading English artists, make up the decorations of one set in "The Whip," the First National picture featuring Dorothy Mackaill, which comes to the Cliftona Theater Thursday.

Horses figure in every etching, for the English are great lovers of riding and racing. The pictures are from 30 to 50 years old. They show a party of horsemen "going to clover," the Westchester Hunt, the high jump, the steeplechase, the polo match and a race of polo ponies.

"The Whip," a famous old English melodrama, was directed by Charles Brabin, and has Ralph Forbes, Anna Q. Nilsson, Lowell Sherman, Marc McDermott and others in the cast.

Did You Ever Stop To Think

By Edson R. Waite
Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT some jobbers and manufacturers are filled with admiration for the goods they sell. THEY SHOULD BE!

But admiration alone does not sell goods. If they don't advertise and use modern selling methods, they will find the objects of their admiration getting nowhere—likewise their business.

It is always possible for jobbers and manufacturers to increase their business.

They could step into the field more lively via the advertising route.

Outside firms often get business out of local territory because they advertise and follow up the advertising by business-getting methods, while the home jobber and manufacturer set their sights for distant fields, overlooking home territory which is most important.

The home city should not be forgotten.

The right method is to sell the folks at home by advertising.

SELLING THE FOLKS AT HOME BRINGS AN INTRODUCTION TO NEW FIELDS.

Tigers are Prepared for Washington Team

WILL FIGHT FOR VICTORY ON INVASION

Two Other S. C. O. League Games Are Scheduled For Friday Afternoon.

Coach Guthrie has been sweating some of the weak spots out of the Tigers this week preparatory to their journey to Washington C. H. Friday. Last week the C. H. S. Tigers went down to defeat in the last two minutes of the game against the league leading Wilmingtonians.

From all reports it is thought the Washington team will have little trouble disposing of the Tigers, but this will not be true if Coach Guthrie has his way.

The Circleville boys have been working hard all week perfecting some of the plays and correcting a number of faults. Harry Grant has been trying to improve his punts and the rest of the backfield has had a lot of practice on blocking.

TWO REGULARS OUT

Barnhill is off the center position due to a bad ankle, and will be replaced by Carothers. Dumm suffered a fractured collarbone in practice Tuesday night when blocking so Davis will be in the quarter position.

The blocking of the team has improved wonderfully and the team as a whole is working more smoothly. Some of the backfield have a tendency to slow up speed when about to be tackled and fail to follow interference but Coach Guthrie is changing their minds about this discouraging feature.

The team made a real showing last week but luck was against them, and they are taking no chances on the Washington eleven.

THREE LEAGUE GAMES

The third round of the S. C. O. league will be played Friday on Chillicothe, Frankfort and Washington gridirons. Hillsboro visits Chillicothe, Wilmington journeys to Frankfort and Washington has a reception prepared for the Tigers. Greenfield plays an off date this week-end with Clarksburg. The little Frankfort team will draw the spotlight and it looks like the conquerors of Circleville and Greenfield are due for a set back.

Chillicothe is the favorite over Hillsboro. In the non-league game Greenfield has a wonderful chance to down Clarksburg.

PROBABLE LINE-UP

The probable line-up at Washington is as follows:

Washington C. H.	Circleville
Moss, l. g.	Shasteen, l. g.

The Scarlet and G'ray team of Walnut-twp, goes to Ashville Friday, Oct. 19, for the big game of the season. Walnut is going prepared for whatever may happen with several new plays that promise success. As there is no school Friday afternoon Walnut expects to have a big following at Ashville.

OUT AFTER REVENGE

CARDS' FIRST BASEMAN MAY GAIN HONORS

Lindstrom and Grimes Also In Running For National League Award.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Selection of the national league's most valuable player will not be made until the first week in December, but Jim Bottomley of the St. Louis Cardinals, Freddy Lindstrom of the New York Giants and Burleigh Grimes of the Pittsburgh Pirates have been installed as the outstanding candidates for the honor.

Despite Bottomley's disappointing work in the world series, he appears to have the inside track for the 1928 award. The smiling first baseman of the national league champions played a major role in Cardinal's pennant drive. He batted .325 and drove in 133 runs, leading the league in the latter respect.

New York sport writers highly favor Lindstrom for the award because of the Swede's plucky play during the closing weeks of the season when the Giants were fighting grimly to overtake the Cardinals. Lindstrom not only fielded sensationally, but he batted .358, finishing in fourth place.

Until Grimes collapsed under the strain toward the end of the season, the spit ball pitcher loomed as the outstanding candidate. Grimes won 25 games and lost 14 for a fourth place team and largely was responsible for raising the Pirates out of the second division.

Paul Waner, Pittsburgh right fielder, won the award last year, polling 72 points out of a possible 80.

JOHN PESEK WINS COLUMBUS MATCH

COLUMBUS, Oct. 18 — John Pesek, the tigerman wrestler, took a two-fall match from Glen Wade, 188 pounder from Columbus, here last night, thus ending Wade's long winning streak in which he had won 33 consecutive matches. Pesek outweighted Wade only by one pound but it was experience that counted. Pesek tossed Wade with a flying crotch hold to take the first fall in 55 minutes and used a flying-hip and headlock to pin the Columbus man in the second.

HARVARD AND ARMY CLASH IN BIG GAME

Battle at Cambridge To Be Outstanding Contest In East Saturday.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 —The army's powerful football squad, probably the best in the east, goes over to Cambridge, Mass., today for a final workout in preparation for Saturday's game against Harvard.

It is strange to find the Crimson after so many seasons of disappointment, figuring as a participant in the major gridiron engagement of any given week, yet such is the case.

Harvard represents a real test of West Points strength, and upon the showing of the cadets the day after tomorrow depends their chances of recognition as one of the year's leading elevens.

The army has not met Harvard at football for 18 years, and while this naturally has nothing to do with the nation's interest in next Saturday's encounter, the fact remains that the Cadets have high hopes of wiping out the memories of successive defeats dating back to 1895. In all the years that West Point and Harvard met on the gridiron, the Cadets won not a single game and scored but once upon the crimson.

This year, things are different. Head Coach "Biff" Jones has one of the strongest of modern army teams on Cambridge today. Harvard has improved over the past two seasons, but still lacks the power and football brains of the Cadets.

SETS SWIM RECORD

NEW YORK, Oct. 18— Mrs. Lottie May Schoemmel set a new world's endurance swimming record of 72 hours, two minutes and 40 seconds. BIGGER BEEF CROP HELPS STOCK MEN

Reduced Prices Seen By Federal Experts As Industry Stimulant.

Increased production of feed crops this year and consequent lower costs of feed, will act as a stimulus to increased production of hogs, cattle and dairy animals, in the belief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Livestock producers, including dairymen, cattlemen, hog and sheep raisers, says the bureau, are in relatively good shape, with the probability that livestock prices and the prospective feed situation may stimulate increased production of animals.

Cattlemen already are beginning to enlarge their herds, the bureau reports, but some time will be required to produce and raise steers, and to get heifer calves grown into milk cows. Meantime, there is more or less widespread complaint among consumers over the increased prices of meat, particularly beef and veal.

The current meat price situation "is inevitable," says the bureau. "For six years, beginning in 1920, the cattle industry was flat on its back, with western cattlemen going bankrupt on all sides and their stock almost without market value. It is doubtful if this country ever witnessed a more acute case of distress in its agricultural industries than this depression in cattle.

"Slowly and painfully the cattle industry liquidated its surplus, reduced its breeding herds, and is recovering from its financial wounds. The consuming community was told again and again that the outcome would surely be a period of cattle scarcity and high prices. Now we are up against that period.

Fashions

Dull Crepe Frock Has Entered the Fashion Picture

By FRANCES PAGET

Copyright, 1928, by Women's Wear Magazine

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (UP) — The dull crepe frock has entered the fashion picture as one of the newest and most distinguished developments. It has been accepted by many of New York's smart set, and will undoubtedly be what is known as an "important dress." So far it has been seen in black, bottle green, wine-red and beige.

This gown is most often without trimming, save possibly a buckle of some sort at the side closing, or to finish the belt. The skirt length is conservatively handled, broken by a subtle drape at the front or side. Circular flounces are also important. The neckline focus attention by the ingenuity of their treatments, scarf themes intricately arranged to fall into capes at back, or draped kerchief-fashion, being noteworthy.

Velvets, like the poor, we have always with us. One finds them printed or plain everywhere and in plain as well as "fancy" types, and often contradictory array of silhouettes. This brings to mind the bustle, an important outline for evening at least.

In this way, a gesture to preserve the flat or slim back is seen as well as a basis for suspending the panels and loops that motivate so many of the skirt designs of this particular style.

One of the best attractions at the Pumpkin Show is the Man of Mystery at the corner of Court and Pinkney-sts.
